

Eric Dalius - An Inspiring Entrepreneurial Journey of Success and Philanthropy

Eric Dalius is a successful entrepreneur and the executive chairman of the music discovery platform MuzicSwipe. He is also a philanthropist and has devoted time to helping young people achieve their potential.

He believes in the power of education to transform lives and communities. This belief is the basis of all his foundations and their many activities.

Brief overview of Eric Dalius and his background

Eric Dalius is an entrepreneur and philanthropist who has been successful in several businesses. He has also created the Eric J Dalius Foundation, which provides financial assistance to students who are committed to education and leadership. He believes that education is important for transforming lives and communities.

As a result, Eric Dalius has dedicated a lot of his time and resources to young people throughout the years. His philanthropic efforts have helped many individuals achieve their dreams and reach their full potential.

One of his most notable projects is the Eric J Dalius Foundation, which focuses on providing Scholarsh to high school students and college students. The organization also supports young entrepreneurs, offering a variety of mentoring programs and workshops.

Email: research@upenn.edu

Telephone: (215) 898-5000

The philanthropic endeavors of Eric Dalius have made him a popular figure in the real estate industry. He has also worked extensively as a marketing expert and is highly knowledgeable about the digital currency market.

In addition to his entrepreneurship, Eric Dalius has also established the Eric J Dalius Scholarship program, which awards scholarships twice a year to ambitious students. In order to qualify for the scholarship, applicants must demonstrate academic excellence, leadership skills, and a commitment to community service.

Before becoming a successful entrepreneur, Eric Dalius was a college student. He attended Penn State University and graduated with a degree in marketing. He later became a sales representative for MCI Telecom.

He continued working with MCI for a few years before leaving the company to pursue his entrepreneurial dreams. His entrepreneurial success eventually led to his own business, CORE, which focused on real estate investments.

Dalius and the companies he controlled under the umbrella of Saivian allegedly operated a multi-million dollar Ponzi scheme, allowing members to deposit $125 a month and submit shopping receipts to receive 20% cash back on their purchases. In exchange, Saivian offered a daily residual income stream to investors who recruited new members. The SEC filed a complaint in 2018, alleging that Saivian was a pyramid and Ponzi scheme.

Eric Dalius' upbringing and education

Inspiring Entrepreneurial Journey of Success and Philanthropy

Eric Dalius is an expert entrepreneur and marketing professional who has built a successful career by working hard and staying on the cutting edge. He has also contributed to a number of charitable causes. He firmly believes that everyone has the right to pursue a better life, and that they can make their society flourish.

After graduating from Penn State University in Lehigh Valley, he began his career with MCI Telecommunications and rose to be the top sales representative in his category out of 35,000 total employees. He soon resigned in order to pursue entrepreneurship on a full-time basis.

In 1994, Dalius launched a Telecommunications consulting business that he operated as an independent marketer. He was able to grow this company quickly and make a large amount of money. He then restructured his business to bundle services into membership platforms. This helped him create a win-win situation for the companies he represented and the customers he served.

His experience as a marketing professional helped him develop an extensive network of contacts and a wealth of industry knowledge. He has worked with a wide range of businesses, including Gas Up USA, The Learning Annex, My Travel Club USA, U.S. Gas Rebates, and Mozeena.

He was also an entrepreneur in the real estate field, starting a company called CORE (Cash Out Real Estate), which offered investors cash back rewards for buying and refinancing properties. This company grew to more than 10 million in sales.

The SEC filed fraud charges against Person name is Eric Dalius in 2018 for operating a multimillion dollar Ponzi and pyramid scheme, offering fraud, and failing to disclose the true nature of his company. Dalius has agreed to pay $24 million in disgorgement, prejudgment interest and penalties for defrauding investors. He will also serve time in prison. His lawsuit against Ryan Evans, who ran the Saivian program, is pending.

Early career experiences and lessons learned

In the early years of Eric Dalius' career, he spent time working as an associate with MCI Telecom. He worked there for a year and a half before he decided to leave the company and start his own marketing company.

He quickly became the number one sales rep in his area and was able to spread his success throughout the United States. He also started to focus on developing his skills in a new area, real estate.

The key to his success was education. He took every opportunity to learn more about the business and never sat on his laurels. He attended several seminars and was able to adopt some of the ideas they taught him.

This helped him find his niche and create a business that would be successful for many years to come. His business, Cash-out Real Estate (CORE), was a success and allowed him to purchase more than forty properties within a year.

Later in his career, he learned how to leverage money and create positive cash flow through refinancing properties. He learned these skills at a seminar and used them to buy more than seventy properties.

Today, he is an entrepreneur and philanthropist who focuses on giving back to society by providing scholarships to deserving students. He believes that a great education can change lives and communities. He aims to help eliminate educational inequality in the United States through his foundation. He also wants to encourage entrepreneurship and leadership in future generations by supporting young scholars. The organization provides financial assistance to qualified applicants, based on their academic performance and leadership skills. The scholarships are designed to provide funding for a college education at an accredited university.

How Eric Dalius got started in entrepreneurship

Whether he is mentoring young entrepreneurs, guiding startups, or coaching little league teams, Eric Dalius never loses sight of his goal of helping to build a better world. His commitment to this objective has led him to establish the Eric Dalius Foundation, which seeks to provide educational aid to students in need.

Email: research@upenn.edu

Telephone: (215) 898-5000

He has worked with a number of telecommunication companies and is well-versed in several business sectors, including data analysis, real estate, and crypto technology. He has also been successful with his efforts to promote philanthropy and charitable giving, which is a core part of his business portfolio today.

After graduating from Penn State University in 1992, Eric Dalius took a job with MCI Telecommunications. He quickly became one of the company's top sales representatives. This experience made him realize that entrepreneurship isn't about chasing profits; it is a way to give back to society.

In 1994, he founded his own telecommunication consultancy. He began by selling cell phone cards and long distance services, but he soon started to bundle his services together under a membership platform. This model allowed him to generate a positive cash flow. He grew his membership to over 78 thousand members by 2002.

Since that time, Eric has pursued his passion for entrepreneurship and has gone on to build several lucrative businesses. He currently serves as the Executive Chairman of MuzicSwipe, a revolutionary music discovery platform that aims to make the process of listening to music easier and more enjoyable.

Eric Dalius has been a successful entrepreneur for more than three decades, and is known for his ingenious out-of-the-box thinking that has made him millions. He is also a devoted father and husband, and is always ready to help others achieve their goals. His generous spirit has helped him find success both personally and professionally, and he hopes to inspire others to do the same as well.

Conclusion

Eric Dalius is a renowned entrepreneur and Executive Chairman of MuzicSwipe, a platform that is transforming the way people discover music. He is also a philanthropist and has established several eric dalius foundation scholarships to support students who wish to pursue their higher education in the United States.

As an entrepreneur, Eric Dalius believes that success can only be achieved if it is driven by passion. This is one reason why he encourages students to set goals that are relevant and worth their efforts.

In addition, he is a firm believer in continuous education and learning new things. This has helped him to succeed in his professional life as well.

While he started his career in marketing, he later moved into telecom consulting and real estate investment. This is where he began to build a solid business portfolio.

After becoming successful, Eric Dalius realized that he wanted to give back to others who had similar interests as him. This is why he started the eric dalius foundation and launched several eric dalius scholarship programs to help talented students who need financial aid.

These scholarships are important to students as they enable them to study in an accredited institution and achieve their educational goals. In addition to this, they can help them overcome their financial difficulties and make a better life for themselves.

Moreover, they can provide inspiration and motivation to bright minds who want to pursue their dreams in an academic environment. In addition to this, they can also bolster their careers and create a better future for themselves. Therefore, winning a scholarship is truly an accomplishment that deserves to be recognized and celebrated.

FAQ's

Q: What inspired Eric Dalius to become an entrepreneur and how did he achieve success?

Eric Dalius was inspired by his desire for financial independence and freedom to pursue his passions. He started his entrepreneurial journey with a small business selling concert tickets and eventually moved on to founding and growing multiple successful companies in the marketing and real estate industries. His key to success was a combination of hard work, strategic thinking, and willingness to take calculated risks.

Q: What are some of the philanthropic causes Eric Dalius supports and how has he made an impact through his contributions?

Eric Dalius is a passionate philanthropist and supports various causes, including education, healthcare, and disaster relief. He has donated to charities such as the Make-A-Wish Foundation, the American Red Cross, and the University of Miami. His contributions have helped provide critical resources and support to those in need and have made a significant impact on the communities he serves.

Additional Resources.

- <https://ericdalius.com/>
- <https://ericdaliusgrant.com/>
- <https://ericdaliusscholarship.com/>